

Dijon is the seat of the Côte d'Or department, famous for its Dijon mustard and the tourist trail "the owl route".

The gold of this region is the vines, cultivated on thousands of hectares and the grapes from which the famous Burgundy wines come.

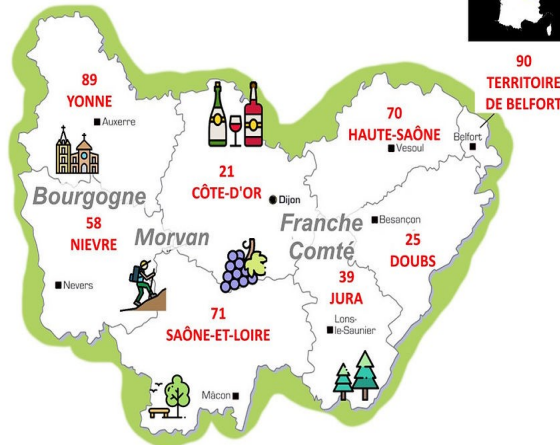

The Morvan Natural Park is the green lung of the region and is made up of large wooded areas, scattered habitats and a multitude of rivers.

Beaune is a beautiful medieval town in the heart of the Burgundy region of France, home to some of the world's greatest wines.

ATTRACTIONS

The Saint Germain church in Auxerre dates from the 13th century. It has a brotherhood: the Saint Sebastian brotherhood.

The charm of the Ouche Valley, the variety of its landscapes and the strength of its relief, have earned it, it is said, recognition as the “Little Switzerland” of the Côte d’Or.
